DETAILS

This ultimate balancing blend of Black Haw root, Licorice root, Eleuthero, Black Cohosh extract, Tang Quei root, and Ginger root supports the glandular system in functioning overall, and especially supporting the female system.

Black Haw root is a tonic to the female reproductive organs that has been known to act as a sedative for spasmodic pain. Black Haw has also been known for supporting normalization of the uterine and ovarian circulation, and encouraging normal and proper functioning of these organs

Licorice root contains phytosteroids similar to the estrogenic hormones that encourage and support the production of healthy female hormones.

Eleuthero is high in phytosteroids that are similar to the sexual hormones produced by the gonad and adrenal glands. It has a definite support with sexual behavior and acts to stimulate a balanced hormone production, going hand-in-hand with licorice root.
